FEATURED SPEAKERS

Brian Palmer, D.D.S Dr. Palmer graduated from UMKC dental school in 1970. He retired in June 2005 after being a full-time family practice dentist for 35 years. In 1975 Dr. Palmer started doing a self-funded research to determine the reasons for the collapse of the oral cavity and airway. He has also taken extensive post-graduate dental courses including the Pete Dawson Seminar series and attending the Pankey Institute. He has given presentations on his research at the International level for the Academy of Dental Sleep Medicine, ILCA, La Leche League, and the Australian Breastfeeding Association. He is a member of the Professional Health Advisory Council for LLLI. Most of the presentations he has given and the articles he has written are available on his website at www.brianpalmerdds.com

Stacy T. Seyb, M.D. Born and raised in Western Kansas, Dr. Seyb received a degree in biochemistry and later received his MD from University of Kansas in 1988. He did his residency in obstetrics at the University of Colorado and taught at Denver General for one year. Dr. Seyb did a Maternal Fetal Medicine Fellowship at Northwestern University in Chicago in 1998. He has since been in private practice in Denver and Portland before moving to the great state of Idaho and working at St. Luke's. Dr. Seyb is interested in public and rural health; prenatal care, especially prenatal diagnosis as well as the national problem of preterm birth. Stacy is married and has two sons which keep him busy with sports activities. He also enjoys running, biking and golf.

Carrie Albers, RD, LD A native Idahoan, Carrie Albers is a Registered Dietitian and Child Nutrition Director for the Idaho Dairy Council, where she is responsible for the development, implementation and marketing of school nutrition education programs and provides classroom and school food service nutrition education throughout Idaho. Prior to working for the Idaho Dairy Council, she worked as the Health and Nutrition Administrator for the Idaho Migrant Council and Seasonal Head Start program. Carrie attended the University of Idaho where she obtained her bachelor's degree in Nutrition with a Dietetics Option. She is currently working towards obtaining her master's degree from the University of Idaho. In her free time, Carrie enjoys outdoor activities such as running, golfing, skiing and mountain biking.

Pat Babendure, RPT Lives in the Boise area and works closely with Boise physicians helping treat infants needing cranio-sacral therapy.
